Treasury Secretary Sent Officer to Lie in Tax Trial to Cover Past Crimes by Treasury

Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen had FinCEN Officer Theodore Vlahakis, Sr. Compliance Officer/Fact Witness at Dept of the Treasury/Financial Crimes Enforcement Network, Washington, District of Columbia, United States on the witness stand representing her in the Lifeline CEO Tax Trial in Roanoke, testifying about the authenticity of records from her office yesterday. Vlahakis claimed he reviewed the documents and data himself, representing all to be facts from 2008 forward.

Government Exhibit 238 was a long sought-after tax transcript from 2008 the government repeatedly refused to produce over the years. It was the first time James Jones saw it, even though a non-IRS tax lawyer the IRS assigned to him in June 2009 had access to his account on a cold call telephone call.

The female government prosecutor prompted Vlahakis to lie about payments to the account, leading him to point out payments as voluntary when the document lied about the source of the payments. They were from unauthorized and illegal automated tax levies months before anyone ever responded to Jones and part of a nationwide targeting scandal yet to be revealed.

"They were caught red-handed covering up the crime." In fact, these are "corpses that finally got dug up!"

The government failed to ask Vlahakis the more important question, a simple one. Has Mr. Jones ever wired funds in or out of the US? The answer is simple too - NO. FinCEN monitors the flow of funds in and out of the US, and he was just the person to ask.
